NEBEKER IS IN THE LEAD

He Will Guide the Fortunes of Indiana

Indianapolis, Jan. 14.—The managers of E. H. Nebeker's campaign for the chairmanship of the Republican state central committee are jubilant tonight over the returns from yesterday's primaries, as they indicate clearly that Nebeker has won a signal victory, and from the reports, has secured a majority of the delegates in nine districts and possibly ten of the thirteen in which members of the committee are to be chosen. The fact that he is regarded as the friend of W. R. McNamara, who is a candidate against Charles W. Fairbanks for the Republican nomination for United States senator, added materially to Nebeker's strength in southwestern Indiana, and there he made almost a clean sweep. The Gowdy managers tonight conceded that Nebeker may have a majority in the district committees, but their reports are not as full as those received by the opposition, and they refuse to concede all that is claimed. There is little doubt but Nebeker's organization throughout the state.

SHIVER!

If you are continually shivering and feeling the cold, you may be sure that your blood is in a bad state. It is thin and does not circulate properly. Your liver and kidneys are out of order, and that is the cause of it.

To Keep Warm

You must have good blood. It is good blood coursing swiftly through the veins that makes heat. It also makes sound health. If you are weak and shivery, you are bound to suffer from sick headaches, backaches, constipation, loss of appetite, tired feelings, nervousness and sleeplessness.

You Need

something to brace up your system, to set your liver and kidneys working, enrich your blood and keep it moving. You can take nothing that will equal Warner's Safe Cure, which is universally recognized as the best and most reliable remedy for weak, shivery people who need strength. For building up the system and giving new life and energy.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

was almost perfect, while Gowdy's was wanting in the essentials necessary to get out a full vote. Nebeker succeeded James N. Hutton as treasurer of the United States under Harrison, and his friends claimed during his campaign that the Harrison leaders were favorable to his candidacy, and wanted the division of affairs in his hands instead of Gowdy's. The fight has been an interesting one, but its effect, as it relates to McKee and Fairbanks, is yet to be seen. The fight has been an interesting one, but its effect, as it relates to McKee and Fairbanks, is yet to be seen.

The Democratic managers, who are pronounced in the sentiment that the present policy of the administration should be adhered to in respect to the coinage of silver, are expressing much concern over the possibility of a situation that may result to the party from the attitude of Senators Voorhees and Turpie toward free coinage. Heretofore it was expected that the sentiment in the state, being in a hopeless minority, would not seek to make itself felt in the councils of the party, and that when the time came for the selection of candidates and enunciating principles there would be practical accord among all members of the party. Governor Matthews was expected to lead the opposition, but the fact that he is a candidate for the presidency was regarded as sufficient to prevent him from being a disturbing factor. Indeed, it was partly on this account that the gold standard men have rallied to him on the money question.

They see now, however, in the attitude of the United States senators, a ghost that will not down, and they are expecting the silver question to come to haunt them at every vital stage in the campaign. A prominent Democrat, referring to this subject, says: "It is reasonably certain that Senators Voorhees and Turpie will not consent to a straight fight on the money question. They will not do so, and they will not fully endorse their course in the senate in general, and their attitude toward the coinage of free silver in particular. The result will be a deadlock, and the block to the party, but the latter will be the parent of conditions that must necessarily result in strife and the promotion of faction. It has been understood that Governor Matthews would not ask from the convention any expression endorsing the coinage of silver, and the party managers were endeavoring to make the matter a question of the campaign without the semblance of dissension in the party ranks. Our senators have dissipated this dream, and there seems to be in store a critical period in the nomination of candidates and the selection of matter to be contained in the resolutions which will be adopted. I believe a campaign to minimize this influence, if possible, by a silver coinage platform will lose to the opportunities which seem now to be presented, and to see an issue opened up to us but the adoption of such a platform or the inauguration of factions through its defeat in the convention."

The single standard men believe that the selection of Sterling R. Holt as chairman will prevent the subject from becoming prominent in the committee, and will tend to the selection of a chairman who will be brought into play to that end. They admit, however, that they are confronted by a condition which is anything but flattering. The Democrats, however, are not singular in having a perplexing question to decide, for the Republicans are passing through a similar tendency of opinion, and it is plainly to inaugurate factions and upon which the conservative element is looking with much concern and with no little apprehension regarding its effect upon the campaign. Throughout the state the most bitter animosities have been engendered between Republicans over the election of representatives on the state central committee, who will in turn choose a chairman for that body. This no secret that the friends of E. H. Nebeker on the one hand and of Chairman Gowdy on the other are at daggers point, and the result will leave much bitterness in the party ranks. In some places the campaign for district committees has degenerated into personal abuse of candidates and the candidates themselves are as active as though they were making a contest for an office which was attended not only by honors but by emoluments which would more than pay for the feeble endeavor. In some districts three or four candidates are in the field and the men are known either as Gowdy or as Nebeker candidates, while no attempt is being made to conceal their preferences if elected to the committee.

ARE FOR LEWELLING

CROWD THAT WANTS HIM TO BE GOVERNOR AGAIN.

Caucus Together at Kansas City and Talk the Matter Over But Come to No Conclusion—On the Other Hand the Fusion Democrats are Demanding the Nomination of Glick by the Populists—Little Chance of Either Glick or Lewelling Getting the Nomination—Some Conjecture on the Platforms.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 14.—(Special).—It is reported here that a number of the friends of ex-Governor Lewelling held a meeting in Kansas City on Saturday to consider the advisability of launching him as a candidate for governor again. Among those reported present were: Rufus Cone of Wichita; Colonel Close of Topeka; C. A. Taylor of Pratt county; ex-Auditor Van B. Prather; J. W. Murphy, of Rawlins county and ex-Chief-of-Police Quarles. It is said to have been decided to make overtures to the fusion wing of the Democratic party, looking to a fusion on Lewelling.

It is also reported here that a secret conference of the fusion Democrats has been held, and that their ultimatum called for the nomination of G. W. Glick for governor. The fusion Democrats, it is believed can not be successful with Glick. They will have to find another man whom the Populists do not know so well.

It is said here, or rather merely conjectured, that neither side in the contest in Kansas next fall will bid for the extreme Prohibition vote. One man here today remarked that it would not surprise him in the least if Morrill was renominated on a Gothenburg plank and Overmyer nominated by the Populists and Democrats on a straight out prohibition plank. This would leave the Prohibitionists clear out in the cold, although at the same time it would present the anomaly of Republicans upholding a Populist theory and the Populists fighting.

The chances for Lewelling's renomination are understood to be poor, unless the Mystical Brotherhood, of which he is said to be a member, becomes so strong in Kansas as to dictate nominations. INSPECTOR KELLY REPORTS. State Oil Inspector M. C. Kelly yesterday deposited with the state treasurer $2,762.29 for the December business of his department. The total fees for December amounted to $1,634.85. The balance on hand December 1 was $1,762.28. Salaries for December amounted to $1,127.75. Mr. Kelly turned over $1,127.75 for October, which makes a total of $3,866.11 he has collected in excess of fees and salaries.

These reports are made out showing all details of the business transacted by the inspector and his deputies, in accordance with the blanks prepared under the direction of the governor. UNION TO MEET AGAIN. The annual conference and meeting of the State Temperance union will be held in this city March 3. This date was determined upon and announced yesterday by Dr. Richard Wake, president of the state association.

This meeting will bring to Topeka all Kansans who are engaged in the fight against the liquor law violations and will be the largest and most representative gathering of the friends of prohibition to be held this spring. A. P. A. AND MORRILL. A dispatch from Atchison to the Kansas City Times reveals the following: "The new campaign of Governor Morrill in this country has been so bitter that to the casual observer it appeared that it must have been instigated by some morose man, who, disappointed in the election of the place-seekers, sought to be able to account for the intensity of the opposition, and for the vindictiveness of the governor's foes. But as friends and foes began to line up and make themselves manifest, the charge is circulated that it is the A. P. A. that as after the governor's political scalp. No one seems to know just why the organization should be so especially hostile to the governor, but one of his friends declare that 'every mother's son of 'em who are fighting him is an A. P. A.'"

Sheriff Larkin, who to some extent was the victim of the A. P. A. remorseless opposition last fall, was asked if he could give an explanation for his fight with the governor. He said he was unable to do so. It might be because some of the governor's family are reported to be Catholics. The reported success of the A. P. A. wing of the Republican party in this country has led to the conclusion of many that it is powerful enough to dictate the policy and nominations of the party this fall. If it is, and it is against Governor Morrill, it will cause him a mighty sight of trouble."

GONE TO WASHINGTON. The papers appealing the mortgage redemption law case recently decided by the supreme court of this state, have been forwarded to Washington, and the preliminary steps in the filing of the case on an appeal to the United States supreme court. Ex-Justice Valentine of the supreme court will go to Washington some time this week and on Monday of next week will appear in the United States supreme court and argue a motion for an advancement of the case upon the docket of that tribunal. This case, involving as it does many thousands of dollars and thousands of acres of land in Kansas, is of the utmost importance to Kansas and Kansans. The importance and extent of the case will be presented by Judge Valentine and the parties to the case are of the opinion that the desired advancement will be secured.

WANTED TO CUT HIS HAIR

Chicago Barber Calls and Insults Mr. Pad-

Chicago, Jan. 14.—A man of average height, whose rather chunky form was garbed in black, walked across the grounds of the Auditorium hotel yesterday morning, bought a cigar at the news stand and made his way back to the elevator. People looked at him, for his front view was striking. But they stared when they got a back view.

Mrs. Anna Gage, wife of Ex-Deputy U. S. Marshal, Columbus, Kan., says:

"MOTHERS' FRIEND"
"I was delivered of TWINS in less than 30 minutes and with scarcely any pain after using only two bottles of 'MOTHERS' FRIEND'." DID NOT SUFFER AFTERWARD.

immediately for the damage that dangerous washing compounds do. It's there, and it's going on all the time, but you won't see its effects, probably, for several months. It wouldn't do, you know, to have them too dangerous.

The best way is to take no risk. You needn't worry about damage to your clothes, if you keep to the original washing compound—Pearline; first made and fully proved. What can you gain by using the imitations of it? Prize packages, cheaper prices, or whatever may be urged for them, wouldn't pay you for one ruined garment.

Beware

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, 'this is as good as' or 'the same as' Pearline. IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled; it's your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—and it back. JAMES PYLE, New York.

"THE MORE YOU SAY THE LESS PEOPLE REMEMBER." ONE WORD WITH YOU

SAPOLIO

What poets would speak of as a wealth of hair stuck out from under his hat brim. It was the blackest kind of hair blacker than the pointed black whiskers which aided in making his front view striking. If it had been a hair of one's head is numbered, the ledger page isn't made that is big enough to set down the figures of that head, or as much of the hair that was visible beneath the hat brim.

People laughed at the long-haired man retreated to the elevator. Those who read the comic papers and the home-made witty columns of the newspapers were constrained to remark that the owner of the hair would be valuable to any football team. Other jokes were passed just as weightily, and then silence fell upon the crowd. A slender, pale-faced man, who carried a briefcase, stepped up to the office and began a conversation with the clerk. "It was none other than Ignace Jan Paderewski, the man who can make a piano say more sweet things than anything since the earlier days of Rubenstein. He and his manager, Hugo Goetz, John C. Frey and E. C. Fisher, had just arrived from New York an hour before. They caused a small sensation in the hotel, and when they left the office to go to their rooms the crowd gathered around the smiling Schaeffer.

"Was that really Paderewski?" "He has got his hair with him this time, eh?" "Anyhow, he surely can thump those fingers," were some of the comments fired at the clerk. "But, say, Schaeffer, who was the other chap carrying so much hair?" asked one. "That," said Mr. Schaeffer, "was Mendelssohn, a musician of wide reputation. All such people come here."

"They do, they do," Well, we'll just put Eden of the Great Northern hotel to you. Eden is a friend of mine, and if these musical wonders won't put up with the Great Northern, I'll see that at least Eden gets his bit."

The party withdrew to the cafe and soon afterward laughter was heard there. Nobody except themselves knew the fun, but an incident of the afternoon must serve as a clue and prove that Eden's friend had kept his word. It was just 3 o'clock when a smart looking man in check clothes, carrying a black valise, such as doctors and piano tuners carry, appeared at the Auditorium office.

"Say, just send up and tell Paderewski I am here," he ordered. Clerk Kennedy looked blank. The onrushing and bustling assistant clerk and room clerk all came forward and said in concert, "Huh-a-ah."

"That's right," repeated the smart-looking man. "Send up and say that I am ready to do just what you're thinking what I wanted to put it off until this time of day for. I was off this afternoon."

"Look here, who are you?" said Mr. Kennedy, as the smart looking man placed his black bag on the counter, opened it and disclosed a collection of bottles, shavers and towels. "I'm the barber. I'm from the Great Northern, and I've come to trim up Paderewski, and give him a shave, too, if he needs it. Mr. Eden got word this morning to have a man here at 3:30 o'clock, and I'm the man. That piano player is keeping me from a concert now."

The clerical force of the Auditorium was staggered, but to guard against mistakes a messenger was sent to the virtuoso's room to ascertain if he carried a "hairdresser." The man, dressed in a brilliant piece of finery on the part of Mr. Kennedy, "Barber" and "hairdresser" are in bad form, not to say offensive to a man like Paderewski, and never came down the way. Mr. Schaeffer says he thinks he knows the identity of the joker, but he is yet undecided with whom he shall share the small bottle, the funny man or Eden.
